

The GlobelIn Artisan Box is a monthly subscription box.

Each month, GlobelIn delivers “the globe in a box” - a themed collection of artisan-made products from around the world.

GlobelIn introduces you to products that you can feel good about - they are often organic, fair-trade, and support artisans and farmers from around the world.

Each box also includes stories on the country of origin of each product as well as the stories of the artisans and farmers. These are products you can feel good about supporting!

The Artisan Box is as low as $30 a month for a six-month subscription. It's $35 dollars for a month-by-month subscription. Shipping is free in the United States, $12 to Canada and $15 internationally.

There are many reasons to subscribe. Some reasons that our customers have shared include:

- * To discover new delightful products you love.
- * To learn something new about the world or how a product is sourced or made.
- * To treat yourself and have a surprise to look forward to.
- * To support artisans and help them distribute their goods.

About GlobelIn:

GlobelIn's mission is to build a more positive world. We bring you delightful, useful products that have an impactful social mission behind them. We help you live a better lifestyle by experiencing these products.

We believe you feel better when you consume better. Whether it's putting better foods into your body, buying an item for your home from an indigenous weaver or simply knowing where your stuff comes from, your purchases should leave you fulfilled and happy.

Buying better should not be a burden. GlobelIn does the work for you. We seek out beautiful, well-made products and trace their origin to ensure that they are doing social good -- and we share that knowledge with you.

When you buy something on GlobelIn, you are buying a thing that is more than just a thing. You are buying good things from good people that do good. You are purchasing products that support a more positive world.

GlobelIn is dedicated to supporting artisans and farmers from all walks of life with an emphasis on people in the developing world. GlobelIn is dedicated to reducing poverty by giving these individuals, and subsequently their communities, a global audience.
